Report on law regarding women and kid

Programme regarding laws for woman and kids' protection was organised in college campus by IQAC college of Education Chopda. Advocate M.V.Rathode Patil was invited as resource person for the seminar. He said in this speech to Access to safe and reliable public places, services, and infrastructures are the key areas that allow women and girls to participate actively in public activities and enjoy equal rights and opportunities. He also added safety and security are very important components for each individual. However, in the context of gender and social culture in countries like Nepal, issues relating to women's and girls' safety are very crucial whether they be in private or public places. Patriarchal norms and values influence the upbringing of men/boys as well as women/girls and have an impact on their attitudes, behaviour and practices. UN Women's report (2017) on Women's Safety Audit identified concerns about women's safety and sexual violence against women and girls. It defines the safety of women and girls as "if a space is made safe for women, it will be safe for everyone. Finally IQAC coordinator Prof.N.D.Valhe extended vote of thanks. All staff members and students of education participated in the seminar.
